Arab Patrol Of Honolulu Makes Hit

LOS ANGELES, MAY 8.
To Dr. A. G. Hodgins, Honolulu.—The Patrol has made a tremendous hit. It drilled at Pasadena with nine picked patrols from all over the country. Aloha Temple's Arab Patrol was unanimously accorded first honors.

J. S. McCANDLESS

Embellished with a double-column portrait of "Miss Weight, champion horsewoman," showing "Aloha" and Shrine emblems on the hat, the report of the arrival of the "Shrine Ship" from Honolulu in the San Francisco Examiner of May 1 is as follows:
With banners flying aloft and thousands of paper streamers fluttering in the breeze, the liner Wilhelmina arrived from Honolulu yesterday with two score of the membership of the "Aloha Temple," including the "Arab Patrol," of the Mystic Shriners en route to the Imperial Council meeting of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles at Los Angeles.

There were altogether nearly fifty (Continued on page four)

GLAD HAND HELD OUT BY HILO

Hilo is getting the get-together spirit. At the meeting of the trustees of the local chamber of commerce this afternoon, a communication from the Hilo board of trade, suggesting a conference of the various commercial and business organizations for mutual advantage, will be considered.
The Hilo board's letter takes the form of an invitation to the Honolulu bodies to foregather in the Rainy City some time this summer for the purpose indicated. The matter has already been before the merchants' association and favorably reported upon by the directors of that organization. If the chamber takes the same position, it is probable that a commercial excursion will be arranged for some time within the next few months, a special steamer being chartered for the purpose, and a general glad-hand visit paid the Hilo business men, which may result in much good all around.

An $18,000 Land Sale

For the sum of $18,000, F. W. Macfarlane, Jr., and Mark A. Robinson at noon today purchased the property of the Oahu Pineapple Company, Ltd., which was sold on foreclosure of mortgage. The property consists of 204.1 acres of land at Papakoa-Paukahu, this island, and an undivided half interest in 139.5 acres additional in the same district; together with six horses, two cows, farm implements and growing crops.
The sale was well attended by pineapple men, and the bidding was spirited while it lasted. It started at $10,000 and advanced to $18,000, at which price it was knocked down, as before stated. The price is considered to be a very good one.
The principal bidders, besides Messrs. Macfarlane and Robinson, were Alfred Eames and W. B. Thomas, both pineapple men from Wahiawa.
The mortgage was held by the First American Savings & Trust Company, Ltd.

CHARLES LUCAS GETS THE JOB

Charles Lucas was this afternoon awarded the contract for building the Queen street wharf shed, by the harbor commission in session. His bid was $46,494. There are various conditions attached to the contract. Other bids were $49,000, by Lord Young Engineering Co.; $54,202, by Henry De Fries; $54,385, by John A. Hughes.

STAFFORD WAS NOT ARRESTED

McDuffie, chief of detectives, was down at the S. S. Lurline this morning, the lookout for one Stafford, wanted on the Coast on a charge of burglary.
The man was reported to be a stowaway on the liner, and the chief had been cabled to arrest him on the arrival of the Lurline.
Although the closest kind of a watch was kept and a diligent search made, nothing was seen of the wanted man.
In the S. S. Persia, due on Friday, is supposed to be a man wanted in San Francisco for grand larceny. McDuffie hopes that he will have better luck with him. He is in possession (Continued on Page Eight)

Aeroplane Squadron For Hawaii

Hawaii is to have one squadron of eight Aeroplanes out of fifteen flying squadrons planned by the War Department for the development of military aeronautics in this country. The official news of this project is contained in the dispatch printed below.

STIMSON'S STATEMENT.
WASHINGTON, April 27.—Secretary of War Stimson made his response today to the demands of the House for information concerning the plans of the Army for the development of military aeronautics in this country and the status of aviation in the great armies of the world. The report discloses in detail the plans of the War Department for increasing its military establishment and showing it is the plan and ambition of the Army to create fifteen flying squadrons with a total of 120 military aeroplanes.
According to these plans there will be three squadrons of aeroplanes for the field Army operating twenty-four aeroplanes; two squadrons for the Philippines with sixteen aeroplanes; one squadron for Hawaii with eight aeroplanes; another squadron of eight aeroplanes for use in Panama; and eight squadrons with sixty-four aeroplanes for the coast defense.

The report shows in contrast to our plans what the principal foreign nations are doing. France leads with a well organized aero. corps, spending this year, according to the report, $600,000 on military aviation, while the American Army appropriation is $125,000. Secretary Stimson included with the material he transmitted a series of reports from American military attaches at foreign capitals on the progress of military aviation abroad.

Marconi Includes Hawaii In World Circling Chain

A wireless station of 500 kilowatt power—equal to the most powerful station now in existence—is to be erected on Oahu by the Marconi company.
This will form one of the links in a world-circling wireless chain. Honolulu will be able to send messages direct to America, the Orient and Australia.

Annihilation of space and the bringing of Honolulu in direct touch with the rest of the world by means of a gigantic wireless station to be erected here by the Marconi company and from which messages will be flashed at a probable cost of ten cents a word, is the gist of the news brought this morning by John A. Balch, vice president of the Mutual Telephone Company, Ltd., who returned in the Lurline after a trip to New York, where he completed the final arrangements for the scheme.

Whether Mr. Balch's own company will share in the financial end of the scheme is a matter that has to be decided by the directors after he has made his report to them.
"Marconi has definitely decided to erect a station here," stated Mr. Balch this morning. "I saw him in New York and have his assurance on that point. Whether my company will join in with the scheme I am not in a position to state until I have made a report and heard the opinions of the directors. Their action will not affect the issue one way or another, however."

"The establishment of a station here is part of a plan worked out by Marconi, and whereby he will have a chain of stations circling the world.
The station that Marconi is to erect here will be of 500 kilowatts. This will be equal in power to that now established at Cape Race, Newfoundland, and which is at the present time the largest in the world.
The antennae of the Cape Race station, that is the wires strung between the masts, are three miles long and cover half a mile in width. They are supported by sixty masts and range from being 250 feet high to those level with the station.
British Arrangements.
"Marconi has already signed up contracts with the British government whereby he will erect eight stations through the British empire. (Continued on Page Eight)

WITNESS IN COURT CALLS MALIHINI LAWYER A "CUR"

Probably for the first time in the history of the local United States district court an attorney was called in open court this morning a cur by the witness he was examining.

The startling incident, which almost led to blows, occurred during the hearing in the admiralty case of Frank Sullivan versus the American ship Edward Sewall. The attorney who was put in the canine class is George D. Little, formerly "millionaire tramp," now attorney for Sullivan in the case against the ship upon which both Sullivan and Little were recently able seamen. The witness who applied the epithet was Captain Quick, master of the vessel.

Quick was under cross-examination at the hands of Little. Little referred to a conversation which he himself had had with Quick in the office of the United States shipping commissioner.

"Do you remember a conversation I had with you in the commissioner's office?" asked Little.
"Yes, I have some recollection of a talk with you there," replied the captain.

"What was the nature of that conversation?"
Quick looked astonished. "Do you really ask what took place there?" he said.

"Well, you were telling me that you thought it probable that you might appear as attorney for Sullivan, and said that if you were to handle such a case, your idea would be to ask for big damages and then come back on a small amount. You suggested that the insurance company would probably be glad to pay a small amount rather than be bothered with a lawsuit, and you suggested that I tell the insurance people to pay about four hundred dollars and you would take half and I would take half."

Little sprang to his feet. "Do you swear on your oath that I said that?" he demanded, excitedly.
Captain Quick raised his right hand above his head. "I do swear that you said that," he replied.
"Then why didn't you take up with the offer?" asked Little.
"Because I thought you were a cur to make it," replied Captain Quick.
During an argument Judge Stanley and Little seemed on the point of coming into personal collision, but trouble was finally averted. The drift of Stanley's questions was to make it appear that Little went aboard the Edward Sewall armed with a letter from Mayor Rolph of San Francisco, accepted the hospitality of the ship, and then upon arriving in Honolulu, showed his ingratitude by inducing Sullivan to bring the case against the ship. He claimed in effect that Sullivan had no intention of filing suit, but was visited by Little a day or two after the vessel arrived in port. Little presented Sullivan with his professional card and suggested that if the sailor had any legal business to be transacted, he might do worse than to employ his former ship-mate.

WILHELMINA SAILS.
The steamer Wilhelmina left San Francisco at two o'clock this afternoon for Honolulu.

INSPECTOR GENERAL BELL'S ARRIVAL CREATES A STIR IN LOCAL ARMY POSTS

The arrival of Lieut. Col. George Bell, Jr., inspector general, on the Lurline this morning caused much curiosity and hurrying about the various forts and the headquarters of the department, for Inspector General Bell called for an immediate assembly of all the mobile troops on Oahu at Schofield Barracks for the purpose of inspection.
The order was particularly felt at Fort Shafter where it devolved upon the Second Infantry to fall out in heavy marching order and take the route of twenty miles at a sharp pace. The cavalry and field artillery already at Schofield Barracks were notified of the proposed inspection and for the next month there will be but little time for play, around Leilehua military reservation.
It is not understood that the coast artillery will be inspected at this time, as this arm of the service recently passed under the eyes of McDuffie.

AN APOPLECTIC STROKE LEADS TO DETECTION OF BLIND PIG KEPT BY VICTIM'S BROTHER

An informer of Inspector Fennell, while standing in the grove about McMillan church the other night with the Inspector, making plans for a nearby raid, suddenly fell stiffly backward, hitting the back of his head on a rock and losing a large amount of blood, while unconscious. Mr. Fennell helped the blind pig he was not looking for. The keeper turned out to be a brother of the sick man, who seemed to have had some sort of stroke, which the flow of blood relieved. At any rate the man who fell partly came to, but at last accounts was still sick but better.

KAKAOKO WILL HAVE BIG TREAT

The Kakaoko Mission is to be entertained next Saturday evening by the McWaters Quartet, the aggregation of Boston singers which has been performing for the Y. M. C. A. and the inter-church union. At the present time the quartet is in Hilo, but will return Saturday morning.
Superintendent E. I. Banks, who succeeded P. W. Rider as head of the mission recently, expects the quartet to be a big drawing card, and he is exceedingly appreciative of the courtesy of the singers in tendering their services.
